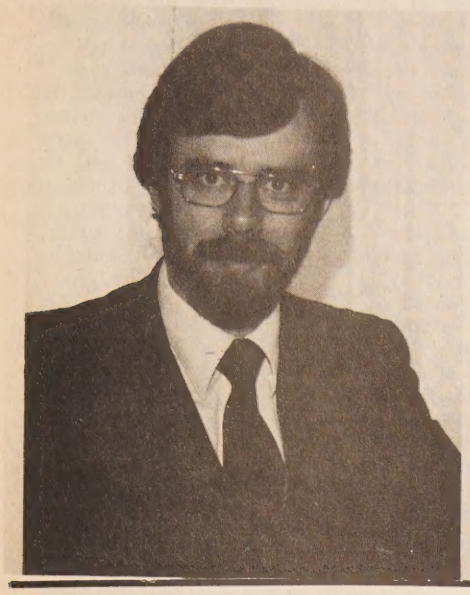
Republican, Bruce Bronoske, Announces Candidacy for Seat in 29th District



Republican, Bruce Bronoske, 33 announces his candidacy for a House seat in the 29th District.

Bronoske has been a life long resident of Pierce County. He is married. He and his wife, Ginger, have two sons.

Bronoske worked at American Lake Veterans Hospital in order to pay his way through college, and he graduated from Tacoma Community College with a degree in arts and science.

Bruce Bronoske is seeking a legislative position because he believes we currently lack truly representative government. He understands that high interest rates and unemployment are not just political issues but "cut to the very core of the family." "Such problems cannot be solved with tired, weary, old ideas but require the development of creative solutions." He believes lean and yet efficient government is not only possible but is actually a mandate of the people who are demanding that the tax, tax...spend, spend cycle must stop.

Bronoske is confident that he has the ability as well as the desire to serve the people of the 29th District.

UNITED WAY SETS $3,900,000 GOAL

Brian Dammeier, President of United Way of Pierce County today annouced that a campaign goal of $3,900,000 has been set by the Board of Directors. The amount represents a 14 percent increase over last year's goal.

B. Jay Vineyard, Works Manager for Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corporation, and 1982 Campaign Chairman said, " Pierce County is faced with a number of critical issues that have a serious impact on the health and welfare of the citizens living in our community.

"We are experiencing the highest unem- "We are experiencing the highest unemployment rate since the days of the Great Depression. Health and Social Services programs that previously received funding from governmental sources have been severely cut back."

"In light of these Challenges, it is incumbent upon the private sector and United Way to decide which services are priority and to support them locally."

Vineyard continued, "In spite of the gloomy economic situation, there is an opportunity for each of us to renew our commitment to individual responsibility for helping our families and neighbors in need. United Way is a force in our community which brings people together and provides the means for each of us to have a personal impact on improving the quality of life in Pierce County."

"The potential for giving in Pierce County is estimated at $28,000,000. I believe that people who are still working will make the personal decision to give more generously than ever before," Vineyard concluded.

United Way of Pierce County currently funds 87 programs in 47 agencies that served an extimated 236,900 people in Pierce County last year.

The United Way Campaign will kick off September 16 and run through November 17.

SEATTLE CULINARY FESTIVAL 1982

SCF '82 is a premiere show designed to introduce the Pacific Northwest to a first-class array of gourmet foods, fine wines and other beverages, plus quality food-related accessories and cookware. The 3-day event opens from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, and from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday. SOCIAL SECURITY

A widow's right to Social Security benefits depens in part on her age, whether she has children in her care, and whether she remarries.

A widow may receive benefits at any age if she is caring for a child who is under 16 years of age or disabled and entitled to benefits. The benefits would end when the child reaches 16 or is no longer considered disabled.

Even if a widow does not have a child in her care she can receive benefits if she is at least 60 yrs. old. The amount of the monthly payment depends on her age when benefits start and the amount her husband would have been entitled to or was receiving at the time he died. A widow who begins receiving benefits at age 65 gets 100 percent of the amount her husband would have received if he were still alive; at age 60, however, she would get only 71.5 percent of the amount.

A disabled widow can get benefits as early as age 50, but the payment is reduced. A widow who remarries at age 60 or older continues to receive benefits with no reduction in their amount.

An important feature of Social Security is its interest in paying the maximum benefit to which a person is entitled. For example, a woman may be entitled to benefits as a widow as well as to retirement benefits on the basis of her own work record. This offers certain options: She can either take reduced retirement benefits at age 62 and then get the full widow's benefit at 65, or she can do the reverse--that is, take a widow's benefit at age 62 and then get the full retirement payment at 65.

Social Security personnel are prepared to compute the options to determine which would be more advantageous and to provide any other information desired. Simply phone, write, or visit any Social Security office.

Proverbs 3.

My son forget not my laws: but let thine heart keep my commandments: For length of days and long life, and peace, shall they add to thee.

let not thine mercy and truth forsake thee bind them about thy neck; write them upon the table of thine heart:

So shalt thou find favour and good understanding in the sight of God and man.

Trust in the LORD with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding.

In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths.

Be not wise in thine own eyes: Fear the Lord, and depart from evil.

It shall be health to thy navel, and marrow to thy bones.

Honour the LORD with thy substance, and with the firstfruits of all thine increase:
So shall thy barns be filled with plenty, and thy presses shall burst out with new wine.

My son, despise not the chastening of the LORD; neither be weary of his correction:

For whom the Lord loveth he correcteth; even as a father the son in whom he delighteth.

Happy is the man that findeth wisdom, and the man that getteth understanding.

LOVE IS NOT EVERYTHING

Love is most everything,
Yet, not quite enough,
To build ones hope upon,
On this disturbing earth.

Love can be wonderful
And yet, full of pain,
Its not everything,
That one must lose or, gain.

Love is the inner beauty,
That nature has brought about,
Just waiting there to be revealed,
The warmth that one must feel.

Love is a peace of mind,
When all others have failed,
Yet, too much of it,
Will take us to our graves.

Love is not love alone,
That we must hold too,
Faith will keep us strong,
When our days on earth are through.

WILLIS BAKER, MEMORIAL COUNSELOR FOR BUCKLEY KING FUNERAL DIRECTORS,

HEALING WATERS BY WILLIS R. BAKER

HEALING WATERS

"YOU CAN'T HEAL A WOUND BY SAYING ITS NOT THERE." (JER. 6:14)

Healing is a fasinating word. We like to think of it in terms of cure. However a cure in the literal sense alludes to the restoration to health after disease. Whereas healing is usually applied to recovery and soundness after a wound or lesion. Therefore when we think of healing we need to think of it as being made whole. Wholeness does not only pertain to one's physical life, but to one's emotional and spiritual life as well. Healing is concerned with the recovery of the proper balance of one's body, mind and spirit.

The holistic view of healing is supported by many in the medical profession who understand there is an interrelation between the spiritual, emotional and physical dimensions of human beings.

Wholeness is mainly encouraged and determined by our attitudes toward life. There are many cases and studies to show that people do not get well if they do not want to get well. Many people have died not because of their physical condition, but because they felt unloved, faithless, hopeless and useless. They lacked self-esteem and could find no possible reason for living. There are three killer giants stalking our mental and emotional camps daily. They are fear, despair and anger To conquer these enemies and find balance and wholeness, one must acquire the spiritual gifts of faith, hope and love

ATTENTION--food and beverage distributors, manufacturers and retailers! SEATTLE CULINARY FESTIVAL '82 -- a gourmet food and accessories showcase for the retail consumer - is coming to Seattle on October 29,20 and 31, 1982 at the Seattle Trade Center. Seattle Culinary Festival '82 will be an uncompromising array of first-class products and also feature lectures and demonstrations by nationally known culinary and wine experts.

SCF '82 is the catalyst you've been looking for - a show designed specifically to bring you personal contact with the amateur gourmet cook and wine buff. Food and beverage representatives can display and promote their products, meet customers on a one-to-one basis and increase their marketing potential. The Festival is designed to heighten public awareness and stimulate economic interest in gourmet foods, fine beverages and quality food-related products. At the same time, the Festival will benefit local arts organizations: Pacific Northwest Ballet and the Seattle Symphony.

For exhibit booth reservations and information, please contact Richardson & Hurshell at 206- 285-3689 or write: Seattle Culinary Festival, P.O. Box 17209, Seattle, WA. 98107. Phone Rosanne Cohn 206 - 682-3396.

COAST GUARD

The Coast Guard is reviewing its policy of towing or salvaging small vessels, under 100 gross tons, and will look at the practicality of allowing commercial tug and sayvage operators to assume that role.

Nearly 60% of all Coast Guard responses in the Pacific Northwest result in tows. Most of these cases involve no immediate danger, and are vessels which have become disabled due to mechanical failure or operator error.

To help in the review process, the Coast Guard is asking anyone who may be affected (e.g., recreational boaters, commercial fishermen, and tug and salvage operators) to comment on this proposal or suggest alternatives. Specifically, information on capabilities, problems, and financial considerations is requested.

Please mail your comments by July 31 to Robert Anthony, Commandant (G-CPE), U.S. Coast Guard, 2100 Second St. S.W., Wash. D.C. 20693 or call 202- 426-2430.

The deadline was imposed so that, if necessary, public hearings could be held in August or September before the current boating season ends.

REFORMING THE TAX SYSTEM

Every few months some hot new idea surfaces in Washington. This time it's the flat rate tax and it has attracted interest from liberals and conservatives alike.

The basic idea is simple: wipe out all tax loopholes and then tax all income from all source at a flat rate. Since the tax base would be larger than it is under the present loophole-ridden system, the government could collect as much revenue with lower rates.

Like all simple ideas, this one has some appeal But it is a good idea to examine this piece of goods very carefully before buying it. Given the fact that the same people who helped blow holes in the present tax code so enthuiastically embrace the flat tax, we ought to be suspicious.

And a good ground for suspicion is the fact that a flat tax would replace what is--in theory, at least--a progressive tax system with higher rates for those who earn more.

That makes sense, even if a high White House aide has called the progressive income tax "immoral." But tax progressivity is a sound corrective for adjusting gross disparities in in-come; those in the highest brackets have the greatest stake in society and so can and should do more to support it.

But all that is theory. In practice, the affluent take advantage of a broad variety of tax shelters and tax-free investments.

Such special tax benefits, called tax expenditures, cost the government about $250 billion a year through lost revenues from individuals and businesses. The other bad thing about those loopholes is that they distort the economy, since investment decisions are not necessarily made because they are wise or productive, but because they shelter income from the tax man.

So why not more to a flat tax? For one thing, the flat tax system would immediately become encumbered by fresh loopholes.

If such maintenance program were to be part o of a reformed tax system than it would be assured of wider support. But without such a combination of an income maintenance system and the tax system, there is no justification for moving to a flat rate tax.

The present problem lies in the loopholes, not in the progressivity of the tax system. People are angry about taxes because the system is not fatr--it ts not pro,resstve in its workings and the average wage-earner often pays higher rates than the walthy.

Stripping way loopholes would broaden the tax base enough to lower all rate levels and result in a progressive tax system people can respect.

APLICATIONS BEING ACCEPTED

Cultural and creative arts programs are a new emphasis in the parks. This fall, children's classes will be offered in theater, mime, poetry and other arts areas. Future plans include development of a summer youth theater program, sponsorship of art shows expansion of the concert series and increased and varied summer arts camps.

Person interested in serving on the council should submit an informal resume or letter stating their interest and briefly detailing their qualifications to Byron Olson, 10 Idaho St, Tacoma 98409. For more information call: 591-5326. Applications should be submitted no later than August 23, 1982.

TAIWAN -- AN ALLY IN ASIA

By Sen. S.I. Hayakawa (R-CA)

They were the first signatories of the United Nations charter -- but the UN doesn't recognize them.

They're a nation of 18 million free people -- but their athletes are barred from the Olympic games.

They've been a staunch ally of the United States through three wars -- but the State Department will not officially receive their ambassadors.

The Republic of China -- commonly know as Taiwan -- continues to be an island outpost of freedom, a showplace of industry and free enterprise, in a Communist-dominated East Asia.

But there are disturbing signs, in recent years, that the free people of Taiwan -- like the tragic "boat people" of Vietnam -- may soon be cast adrift by their one-time friends and allies.

Indeed, American support for the Republic of China has become so niggling of late that the free Chinese might sing, as the beleaguered U.S. garrison on Bataan once did before the Japanese invasion:

"We're the battling boys of Bataan. No mama, no papa, no Uncle Sam."

The U.S. eventually recovered from the loss of the Philippines to the Japanese. However, the loss of the friendship of the people of Taiwan and of the strategic Taiwan Strait to a hostile Communist superpower would have disastrous consequences to the security of the United States. The narrow strait lies astride the most direct route through which the Soviet navy must travel from its northern ports to its new bases in Vietnam.

Without Taiwan, defense experts warn, U.S. forces in South Korea would be in serious jeopardy. The Western Pacific sea lanes would be vulnerable to land-based bombers and missiles. And the security of Japan would be gravely threatened.

Shingenobu Inouye, Japan's expert on East Asian affairs, recently wrote: "U.S. military forces are now dispersed and thinned out in Eastern Asia due to the crisis in the Middle East. Therefore, Taiwan is even more vital in terms of her strategic position."

Apart from her strategic importance, Taiwan has been a valued trading partner and useful model for developing Asian economies. Taiwan is, in fact, a solid eighth among the 160 nations of the world in trade with the U.S. -- some $12.9 billion in 1981 alone.

With the third strongest economy in Asia and an annual growth rate of 9 percent, Taiwan has remained a showplace of free enterprise for the developing world. With fewer resources and population, Free China vastly outproduces the People's Republic of China and enjoys a per capita income ten times greater than its Communist rival.

But far from glorying in the success of their Eastern partner in freedom, some U.S. officials -- in their haste to please the Communist regime in Peking -- maintain an embarrassed silence when reference is made to Taiwan.

Despite U.S. obligations under the 1954 Defense Treaty with Taiwan and the 1979 Taiwan Relations Act, American military supplies contracted for by the Taiwanese have been withheld. This includes the FX fighter planes Taiwan needs if it is to ward off the massive military strength of Red China.

The U.S. about-face on Taiwan raises troubling questions for other U.S. allies on the front lines of freedom. If the U.S. can be so easily bullied into abrogating long-standing treaties with its wartime ally Taiwan, can our postwar allies in the developing world afford to risk their security by continuing alliances with us? Might they not reasonably seek accommodation with the Soviets or Red Chinese -- whose record is, if anything, consistent?

Before involving expediency as a creditable cause for abandoning principle, we should recall Martin Luther's observation: "It is neither wise nor prudent to do ought against conscience." If conscience is our guide, then continuing our traditional friendship and support for Taiwan will be our best policy.

"CONFERENCE REPORTS" is a bimonthly column of the Senate Republican Conference. The opinions expressed are those of individual senators who comprise the new Senate Majority.
